Weighing In

Joe Barnett

Bodily exercise has some value.

~1 Timothy 4:8

Year after year, “Lose weight” tops the list of New Year’s Resolutions. If you watch TV, read a newspaper, or eyeball the magazine display at the grocery checkout, you haven’t escaped weight-loss ads and fads, and before-and-after pictures.

No scripture indicates that we’ll have to physically weigh in before getting into heaven. But spiritual accountability shows up a lot. At heaven’s gate, will you be asked, “How much did you lose?” Or be high-fived because you’re in the top ten percent in fitness?

I’m big on physical exercise, but here’s a verse that puts everything in perspective: “Bodily exercise has some value, but godliness has value for all things, holding promise for both the present life and the life to come” (1 Tm 4:8).

Lose the spiritual fat and flab.

“Continue steadfastly in prayer...” (Col. 4:2).
