You Do It Better than Hallmark

I, Paul, write this greeting in my own hand.

~Colossians 4:18

Joe Barnett

We had been married two years when an untimely and unexpected death in the family devastated us. A letter from our mailbox began, "My dear children."

It is the only letter I ever received from my paternal grandfather. His handwritten letter was an outpouring of love. I visualize the distinctive penmanship and compassionate message to this day. It meant the world to me.

I love the convenience of sending and receiving email and text messages. But there is nothing quite like the personal touch and warmth conveyed by a handwritten note.

Paul dictated his letters, but added endnotes in his own handwriting, claiming "this is the distinguishing mark in all my letters" (2 Thessalonians 3:17).

Someone in your circle will treasure your written words more than Hallmark's.

Your handwriting, like your fingerprint, is unique.

"Continue steadfastly in prayer..." (Col. 4:2).
